Theodicy (/ ˌ θ i ː • Ë ^ É ' d É a s i /), in its most common form, is an attempt to answer the question of why a good God permits the manifestation of evil, thus resolving the issue of the problem of evil. Some theodicies also address the evidential problem of evil by attempting "to make the existence of an all-knowing, all-powerful and all-good or omnibenevolent God consistent with the existence ...

In social science and politics, power is the capacity of an individual to influence the conduct (behaviour) of others. The term "authority" is often used for power that is perceived as legitimate by the social structure. Power can be seen as evil or unjust, this sort of primitive exercise of power is historically endemic to humans, however as social beings the same concept is seen as good and ...

It's not hard to write IO code in pure functional languages. They all provide a simple mechanism for writing IO code that works just like it does in imperative languages. All they do is enforce that you can't call IO code inside other code whose interface is declared as not performing IO. An analogy would be a dynamic
